BUGLE CELEBRATION

The Bugle is almost a year old and has reported many strange things in this first year of publication, proportionately as it arrives on our desk. Unfortunately you as the reader cannot read a single word that is written because you are illiterate and without understanding a single word that we have written, so therefore it is a waste of space trying to educate you into the realm of reading these tedious editions, which are produced at a considerable cost. If you can read this, then you are a bloody genius - because we had enough trouble writing it. The village bar midas can't read so well which means we can say what we like about them - To all our readers we wish you a Merry Xmas and Happy New Year

The written word above is the result of an experiment carried out at Cambridge University, as long as you get the first and last letter in the correct place the rest can be in any order provided they are the correct letters within the word. So please write your story no matter how brief, we can make up the rest using our journalistic licence

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Lilley's display of Xmas lights as always are great, but they will dwindle gradually over the next few weeks as customers make their purchases to decorate their houses.

SIT QUIETLY - LISTEN

There is always a witness to something that happened a long time ago - the other side to your story! Joe and JB chatting (20th Nov) in the bar of an event that happened some 38 years hence. Joe was telling how he witnessed the right wheel coming off - see col 1. P2

OVERHEARD - AT THE BAR ! Yeah! la'er on DyaknowwotI mean - No I don't

I aintgotany - Do what ?

Poor people shouldn't fly, they pollute the atmosphere.

A story should be embroidered, otherwise it becomes a documentary.

Twin flying - I use asymmetric power when approaching in a strong crosswind. - WHAT ...!

If you brag about your exploits - make sure you have all the facts. - The aviation world is very small and someone, somewhere will have the other side of your story.

I like to come in a lot faster in a strong crosswind ..! Great idea, you have more time to get yourself into serious trouble.

We will be watching - remember we'll be watching your antics from the sidelines and having a good laugh, when you career across the airfield, out of control!

Pilots Notes - are written by experts for the safe handling of your flying machine - accidents are caused by disobeying the common rule of flying - There is no antidote an Aero Commander twin engine aircraft belonging to Chris De Vere as it took off from runway 11 at Biggin on a hot Sunday afternoon. We think it was in the summer of 1967. JB questioned Joe as to the events that followed - unaware that JB was a passenger in this ill fated event. Chris had spent all morning fitting a new Rotating Beacon on the bottom of his aircraft - we eventually touched down fair and squarely on the said beacon, which wore down to its metal base - Joe remembers vividly the red light wearing down to nothing. Pilots were Chris De Vere / Graham Jackson with JB, a girl by the name of Pam and two others, whom I can't remember ..! If only we had a piece of that red glass - sadly Chris and Graham have since departed to that big airfield in the sky. What about the wheel ? Well it was recovered a new washer fitted and the aircraft taxied away - The press never found out who was in the aircraft as we walked away, indicating with pointed finger that the pilot was down there somewhere ..!

PERIMETER RACING.

These were spontaneous events that would be organised upon the closing of the club bars when people were forced out into the open, whilst the night was still young dreadful situation! These were improperly organised by a lot of shouting and handicapping procedures - Charles Daniels in his Ferrari being relegated to start from several seconds behind the main pack. The drivers were people who should have known better, without experience, many cars were rolled, wrecked, engines blown and quite often belonged to the parents of some drivers. Fortunately these events are long since gone - quite a few of the competitors have passed away or simply moved on - there isn't a chance of a Masters Race, (as recently held at Kyalami,) being considered - The stories told will remain with all the embellishment they deserve as our memories fade and we remember with glory 'The participants'

YOUR HUSBAND

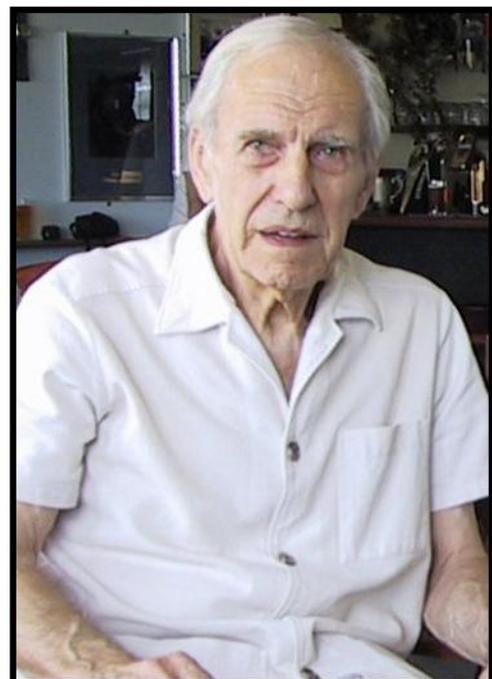

Your husband is a devious being (he is not human) he will appear to be at home in a caring kind of way, pottering around the garden and then walking through the house with his dirty boots. When you complain he shrugs his shoulders and says when it dries it will dust off. The minute you leave for work or go shopping he will head for his 'Gentleman's Club' where he will guffaw about his prowess at home with his so called drinking buddies - each trying to top the others version of their own image of life at home. In reality they can't cope with any form of domestic conformity - But amongst their so called domestically rejected buddies who in fact have nothing to say, other than a repetitive story, they have told many times before and they will laugh at the same place within their story. They will think that the Barmaid has taken a fancy to them when she flutters her eye lids - she is only trying to increase bar sales and impress her immediate boss - but your husband will hang in there criticising the beers lack of bubbles, the beer is flat, due to too much soap in the washing up water. He will have all the answers as to how things should be done, when in fact he is useless at any DIY around the home, or any other place for that matter. Finally, my husband is wonderful. Being married to him is better than living alone. At least you know where he is and he isn't likely to come home unannounced and catch you out...!

Why do they spend so much time at their so called 'gentleman's club' Are we the ones being hood-winked ? Signed - Happy Wife...

P.S. Perhaps the new drinking laws will be to our advantage ... !!

SOCIAL INVITATION !!

To all rejected husbands on Xmas morning 'The Gentleman's Smoking Club' will be open for a short while, whilst the missus is preparing the dinner. There will also be some mistletoe hidden amongst the festive decorations. Could be an advantage for you.

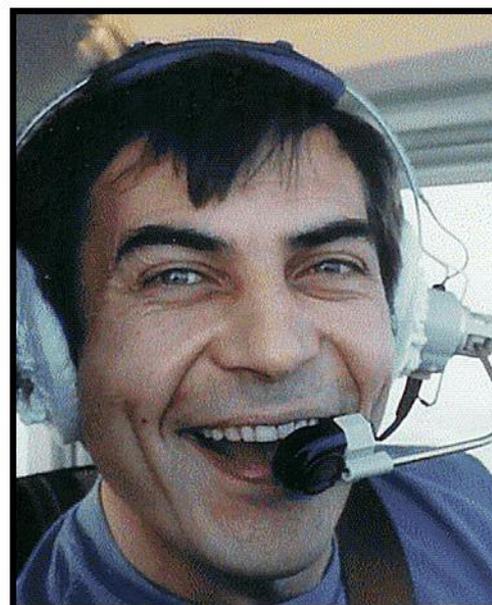

VICTOR PECKHAM

It is with regret that we report the passing of Victor on the 26th Nov. Victor was a regular to the bar and an old soldier who was posted to the far East fighting the Invasion of the Japanese during World War II. Unfortunately he ended up spending sometime as a POW under the Japanese. However, he had the last laugh as they had to pay him £10,000 compensation, which was a pittance compared to the suffering these gallant soldiers endured. Victor was 85

DAN NEVILLE

The Bugle apologises for not publishing a picture of Dan previously.

He was a very charismatic person. A memorial service to be announced will be held at the RAF Chapel - Biggin Hill
