REMEMBER THE RAF

Gone are the days of such scenes when we had these prestige bombers capable of nuclear destruction world-wide at a moments notice This photograph was taken by the editor - can you name the place and date - buy your editor a drink and he will bore you with the details

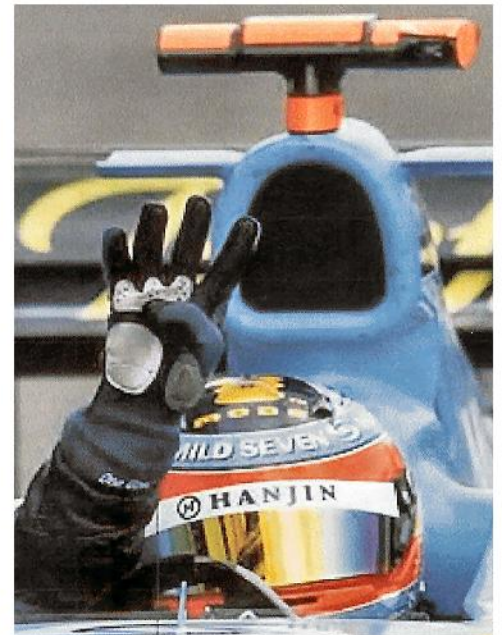

BARMAID UNIFORMS

These are the new scanty uniforms that all Barmaids will wear from 4th July 2005 - Members are not allowed to fondle or feel the velvet like texture of this unique material whilst being worn by the barmaids.

Overheard over the bar- 'We are going to Kingston-on-Thames for a party' there is a big river nearby !?

This is what happens when you hover taxi on a very windy day trying to impress a crowd . Heli-copter Pilots Beware.

Whilst Albert Alonso wins the European Grand Prix following Raikkonen's tyre burst, members of the TV Pilots Pen Entertainment Centre enjoy another hearty meal

European GP—Yet another very successful luncheon was provided by the TV Chefs—this would be followed by the Canadian GP with the best meal so far - Salmon / Salad / Jacket Potatoes - Marvellous

The next Grand Prix would be the GP of USA with the Entertainment Centres Large Screen Presentation. The theme food would be specially prepared burgers 'a la carté' below !

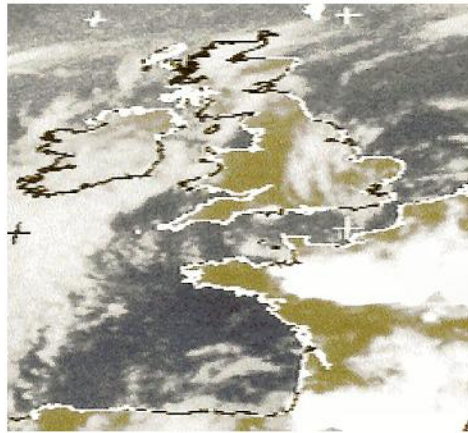

Whilst the Burger Bar Bee was a resounding success. The larger than life TV screen was awesome - ring side view for everyone.

Pit lane viewing with Martin Brundle before the race start which turned out to be an absolute fiasco but he managed to keep up his commentary despite being a six car race—the worst disaster for Formula One

The last time a GP was cancelled was the Belgian Grand Prix of June 2nd 1985 due to the surface of the track breaking up making it unfit for racing - all drivers supported this decision and the race was off - So we all got in our various aircraft and flew home.

Our Meteorological Department report that the hot weather we experienced in June which burnt the Editor during a hot spell has passed us by - cloud will follow.

Grass Cutting Saga at the Club

Mr Joe Merchandise Director of the 'Pilots Pen Club' has purchased a new mower following the demise of the previous machine. The new machine arrived in one piece but has been dis-assembled into a hundred bits by the present owner for no reason other than to find loads of grass spores underneath. Mrs Jill Mincemeat Co-Director of the 'Pilots Pen Club' says the whole thing is a misappropriation of funds. Especially when I need new tea towels and a machine to wash glasses, as she stalked off in a huff...! We could have had some nice flowers on the bar to make the place look luvly instead of looking out over lumpy bumpy grass that will only twist your ankle if you try to walk on it in a straight line. It is as dangerous as a flight in a helicopter or riding a rocking horse down the stairs without a banister and the noise it makes is almost as bad as those bloody helicopters thrashing around near people trying to have a quiet drink, I've a good mind to write to the editor of the 'Bugle' and put my views forward for all to read - she said ! 200958

'Grockle Rob' our resident photographer nearly went up in smoke the other night whilst taking some pictures of Helen Jenkins who popped in to enjoy a drink at the 'Pilots Pen Club' pictured below.

Trouble at 'The Bugle'

The editor reports some unrest at the works due to the printers demanding more money for their efforts in producing these tabloids and threatened strike action. The Editor said he would print the edition his self, by him self so the printers were no longer required. Unfortunately for the Editor, the printers had taken the 13 amp fuse out of the plug to the printer which almost caused the collapse of this edition. However this dispute has been resolved with a simple but effective pay rise for the staff - The Editor though still retains his lowly wage for the sake of the 'Bugle' and its future.

Sunday 3rd July - Is all set for the French Grand Prix (fingers crossed) the Entertainment Centre will provide the appropriate cuisine for the occasion and hopefully we will be able to experience the full potential of the large screen viewing and surround sound - also we have a 'roll over' on our F1 sponsorship lottery.
