EXCITING NEWS—RED ARROWS CELEBRATE - 40th AIR SHOW AT BIGGIN HILL

Children eagerly gather around a Flight Sergeant asking about the Red Arrows and a career in the Royal Air Force.

'Old Soldiers' look up to display

REVOLT AT PILOTS BAR

Our diminutive Bar Hostesses Pixie and Dixie are seen below discussing their grievance prior to going public through this journal. ( see page 2)

12th may 2005 the Red Arrows celebrated 40 years of flying at Biggin Hill in the presence of the Princess Royal, Princess Anne and also 300 school children who were guests at this one off Air Display. The Princess chats with some of them. 7th May 2005 another Special Event was arranged for the Old Soldiers at the 'Pilots Pals Bar' with a wonderful flying display performed by Will Curtis in his Sukoi 29 and Bill Giles with his Pitts S2B, also an a extra display by Rob Davis in his Yak11 on his way home from flying at Duxford. A wild evening followed within the Pilots Pals Bar with live music by 'Coolie' it was packed to bursting point ...!

These young ladies are requesting Designer Sunglasses "should be standard issue" provided to bar staff only, due to the lack of sun blinds which make it difficult for them to see people standing at the bar waiting for a drink. Also 'Barmaids' may consider remaining in employment under the following conditions...

1. Women must appear in the Bugle News once a month.
2. At no time must our 'Butts' be touched by unseen hands.
3. Pension Scheme and Company Car to be provided.
4. Customers sleeping at the bar should not snore whilst sleeping, it hurts our ears.
5. Aero chocolate bars to be kept in stock for customers who complain over lack of bubbles in lager drinks

Bubbles Thomasomatoe says he's been forced to drinking half pints as this is the only way he can get the equivalent amount of bubbles per measure and I am certainly not having an Aero chocolate shoved in my drink., furthermore barmaids should wear high neck outfits he retorted !

If we let women start airing their views through this journal it will be end of drinking as we know it, no women

The Directors of the bar were not available for comment when our reporter called today to follow up these latest reports of discontentment at this watering hole. Our reporter feels that this discontentment is justifiably singular in content.

Kimi Raikonen may have won the Monaco Grand Prix but we at the TV Entertainment Centre had the best meal of the day with our Seafood Platter and Champagne. Pam shared Raikonen's victory by winning our race sweepstake.

MYSTERIOUS PRAYERS

It has been reported that an unidentified man was seen praying at the intersection of Main Road and Jail Lane last Saturday at the proposed roundabout. We are unable to print the name of this individual for legal reasons. but this mysterious pagan ritual eludes all investigations.

OBITUARY: Mr Joe Merchandise astride his magnificent mechanical grass-cutter which has given faithful service over the years has been declared mechanically unfit for further service - this is a great blow to the Club as we liked to hear the rhythmic putt - putt - putt as Joe bounced up and down on the unsprung seat driving round and round in ever decreasing circles until every blade of grass was down to a standard airfield regulation height, - it did make a lot of noise!

FIRE AT OLD RAF CAMP

People were evacuated from the nearby derelict RAF camp on 24th May following a mysterious fire which caused the main road to be closed. Many people ended up at the Pilots Pals where discounted drinks were served to the unfortunate refugees. Mr Tony Thom-somatoe remarked afterwards, what would happen if I burnt my house down, would I get a discounted beer

FLIGHT SIMULATOR .....

Steve Goneaway's simulator has a large screen presentation which is quite effective reports our pilot reporter who carried out a couple of aerobatic manoeuvres before landing back at Biggin Hill a wonderful experience he reported, much better than flying to Japan / Australia or Africa the bar is just a few feet away after landing, no re-fuelling required, hotels or flight planning / political clearances. The graphics can be world-wide. Fantastic flight. Makes one feel quite important to stroll casually into the bar and brag about your most recent experience over a drink, that you have managed to con out of some unsuspecting amateur student pilot who actually thinks you are a genius pilot and he will ply you with drink all evening to gain knowledge of your vast flying experience that you have gained from listening to the stories that have been explained with such detail around the bar that you actually feel your feet floating off the ground with a levitating force that is almost as believable as David Copperfields wonderful illusions as seen on TV making a train disappear before your very eyes, at which point you leave without buying a drink all evening - great fun flying !
